Political Ecology Network (POLLEN), a network of sovereign (academic, activist or other) 'nodes' that study, teach and practice political ecology. It was established mainly to coordinate between but also to support the various nodes in ensuring that political ecology messages, lessons and insights are shared, broadcasted and heard more widely. (Checked on 24 Jul. 2018) A study shows that both citizens groups and political parties want to improve the

Participatory Budgeting process

introduced by the Pune Municipal Corporation, and both would be important actors in the further evolution of this process. (checked on 25 Jun. 2015)
